Market Review

MSCI Asia ex Japan rose 4.5% in USD terms in October, outperforming MSCI World with Korea, Taiwan and Singapore reaching new highs. October's performance was driven by continued gains in AI stocks and geopolitical developments. Asian and US tech giants guided for acceleration in AI capex, while tech firms also formed new partnerships to secure supply for AI datacenters. On the geopolitical front, US strengthened its relationship with Korea through areas such as nuclear EPC, AI infrastructure and shipbuilding. US and China also agreed on a one-year trade truce post the Xi-Trump summit.

MSCI Korea was the best performing market, with a 22.3% gain in USD terms. Strong earnings, tightness on memory supply amid accelerating AI capex spends, progress in Samsung's HBM manufacturing, and partnership with US across various sectors were key drivers for the market.

MSCI Taiwan was up 9.8% in USD terms, on the back companies reporting a good set of results, driven by higher demand for AI and iPhone. TSMC raised its earnings guidance and announced a significant increase in capex.

MSCI India saw more modest gains of 4.5% in USD terms. The market has been underperforming in recent months amid a lack of AI exposure.

MSCI China was down 3.9% in USD terms. US-China trade tensions had escalated in early October but came down towards the end of the month as both countries agreed to a one-year truce on tariffs. The 4th Plenum also disappointed due to a lack of priority given to consumption and clearer priority given to advanced manufacturing.

China's September economic data saw a mixed set of results. Industrial Production saw a strong 6.5% YoY growth in September. Exports were also strong with 8.3% YoY growth. On the other hand, domestic demand remained relatively weak with retail sales rising 3% YoY. CPI remained soft at -0.3% YoY although core CPI inflation picked up to 1% YoY, largely driven by gains in gold and platinum jewellery prices.

India's September CPI print fell from 2.1% YoY in August to 1.5% YoY. Industrial Production growth was at 4% YoY. Composite PMI fell to 59.9 in October from 61.0 in September, while Manufacturing PMI rose to 58.4 from 57.7 in September.

Investment Strategy

We remain positive on Asia ex Japan Equities on a 12-month basis as two largest economies in the region are likely to provide meaningful policy support.

China has announced "anti-involution" policies aimed at arresting price erosion and unnecessary competition. It has also stepped up infrastructure spending with the launch of a RMB 1.2 trillion hydropower dam project in Tibet.

India front-loaded monetary stimulus in a meaningful way with the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) cutting rates by 100bps this year. In addition, regulatory environment and liquidity have also turned positive and will support growth. The government had recently done GST reforms in September, consolidating the GST slabs from 4 to 2, resulting in lower GST for many products and will result in more money in the pocket of consumers.

MSCI Asia ex-Japan valuations have risen to 1 SD above its long-term average. This is supported by easing inflation and brighter outlook for at least 10% earnings growth.
