Market Review

The FTSE ST All-Share Index rose 2.4% in April. By sector, Financials, Real Estate, and Information Technology were the largest contributors, while Communication Services detracted. Singapore's non-oil domestic exports rose 15.3% YoY in March, compared to 4.0% YoY in February. Singapore's core inflation rose 1.7% YoY in March, up from 1.4% YoY in February.

Industrial Production rose by 10.1% YoY in March 2026, compared to revised 3.3% YoY growth in February 2026. Electronics output showed strongest growth, up 30.0% YoY. Singapore government announced new measures early May on its Executive Condominium (EC) scheme for minimum occupation period and adjusted launch quota for first-time buyers. The government confirmed a steady pipeline of new housing development and land release, to ensure long-term supply stability.

The portfolio delivered a return of +3.3% and outperformed benchmark by 1.0%. From a sector perspective, the key contributor to the portfolio were Financials, Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary, while Communication Services and Industrials were the main detractors. Our overweight positions in MoneyMax, UMS, and AddValue were positive contributors to performance, while our underweight position in Yangzijiang Shipbuilding and AEM Holdings and overweight position in Jardine Matheson were detractors to performance.

Investment Strategy

We maintain our bullish outlook for Singapore equities on a 12-month basis. We believe Singapore's strong macroeconomic outlook is supportive for Singapore focused companies to see sustainable, stronger earnings. There is a wide gap of GDP growth over EPS growth, which bode well for improvements to corporate earnings outlook.

Singapore's earnings growth should improve due to low-cost pressures and with higher revenues, as Singapore benefits from the global demand/industrial boom for its high-value added outputs, especially in the technology sector. Singapore banks, the largest sector in Singapore's equity market, are expected to see manageable impact on their Net Interest Margins and could see further inflows. Singapore property sector continues to see robust domestic-driven demand.

We continue to favour companies who show a clear path towards improving shareholder returns either via capital management, monetisation of non-core assets and/or share buyback programs.
