Market Review

The FTSE ST All-Share Index rose 3.0% in August. By sector, Financials was the largest contributor, followed by Information Technology and Communication Services. Real Estate, Health Care and Materials were the main detractors.

Singapore's non-oil domestic exports rose 24.2% year on year (YoY) in July, after increasing 20.8% in June, supported by continued electronics demand. Core inflation rose to 2.0% YoY in July from 1.6% in June, while headline inflation increased to 2.2% from 1.9%. Industrial production grew 6.8% YoY in July, moderating from revised growth of 7.5% in June, with electronics leading growth.

Singapore equities remained supported by constructive liquidity conditions and resilient bank earnings. Bank fundamentals, including loan growth and wealth-management activity, continued to support sentiment, while technology stocks remained more volatile as investors reassessed valuations following the global technology sector correction. The market also continued to benefit from supportive policy measures, including the MAS Equity Market Development Programme.

In the property market, URA's final 2Q 2026 data showed that private residential prices increased 0.5% quarter on quarter, slower than the 0.9% increase in 1Q 2026. In July, MAS slightly increased the rate of appreciation of the Singapore Dollar Nominal Effective Exchange Rate (S$NEER) policy band, as inflationary pressures and the growth outlook strengthened. Overall, the Singapore market backdrop remained constructive, although higher imported energy costs and tighter policy settings introduced near-term risks.

The portfolio delivered a positive return of 2.8% in August. From a sector perspective, key contributors to the portfolio performance were Financials, followed by Information Technology and Communication Services, while Real Estate, Industrials, and Consumer Staples were the key detractors. Our underweight position in Singapore Airlines and overweight positions in UMS Integration and Addvalue were positive contributors to outperformance. The main detractors from performance were our underweight in Yangzijiang Shipbuilding and overweights in MoneyMax and SATS.

Investment Strategy

We maintain our positive outlook for Singapore equities on a 12-month basis. We believe Singapore's strong macroeconomic outlook is supportive for Singapore-focused companies achieving sustainable earnings growth. Singapore's equity market activity has also picked up, as MAS looks to appoint additional asset managers to run strategies predominantly invested in Singapore equities under the Equity Market Development Programme (EQDP).

Singapore's earnings growth should improve due to low cost pressures and higher revenues, as Singapore benefits from the global demand and industrial boom for its high-value-added outputs, especially in the technology sector. Singapore banks, the largest sector in the Singapore equity market, continue to see strong inflows and higher fee income. The Singapore property sector continues to see robust domestic-driven demand.

We continue to favour companies that show a clear path towards improving shareholder returns either via capital management, the monetisation of non-core assets and/or share buyback programmes.
