Market Review

The FTSE ST All-Share Index fell 2.3% in March. Financials, Consumer Staples, and Utilities outperformed the broader market, while Real Estate, Industrials, and Communication Services lagged. Singapore's non-oil domestic exports was 4% YoY in February, compared to 9% YoY in January. Singapore's core inflation rose 1.4% YoY in February, up from 1.0% YoY in January.

Industrial Production fell by 0.1% YoY in February 2026, compared to growth of 16.6% YoY in January. Electronics output continued to show strong growth, up 13.7% YoY. In view of rising cost-of-living and energy costs, the Singapore government initiated significant reviews of the Certificate of Entitlement (COE) system in March. It also maintained a watchful stance as the primary housing market. The government confirmed a steady pipeline of new housing development and land release, to ensure long-term supply stability.

The portfolio delivered a return of -2.3% and underperformed benchmark slightly by 0.2%. From a sector perspective, the key contributor to the portfolio were Industrials, Consumer Staples, and Financials, while Real Estate, Utilities, and Consumer Discretionary were the main detractors. Our underweight position in Yangzijiang and overweight in Pan-United and Sheng Siong were positive contributors to performance, while our overweight position in City Developments and UOL were detractor to performance.

We maintain our bullish outlook for Singapore equities on a 12-month basis. We believe Singapore's strong macroeconomic outlook is supportive for Singapore focused companies to see sustainable, stronger earnings. There is a wide gap of GDP growth over EPS growth, which bode well for improvements to corporate earnings outlook.

Singapore's earnings growth should improve due to low-cost pressures and with higher revenues, as Singapore benefits from the global demand/industrial boom for its high-value added outputs. Singapore banks, the largest sector in Singapore's equity market, are expected to see manageable impact on their Net Interest Margins and could see further inflows. Singapore property sector continues to see robust domestic-driven demand.

We continue to favour companies who show a clear path towards improving shareholder returns either via capital management, monetisation of non-core assets and/or share buyback programs.
